"I hope you enjoy learning this music as much as I enjoyed composing it.
Great love and care has gone into writing it, as well as great inspiration from Nano and also from Raphael Consedine’s beautiful poetry.

The instruments in the score are suggestions only and can be modified to suit each individual case. For example, the flute could be substituted for any wind instrument or even a string instrument if necessary. Indeed, the songs will still work well with just piano accompaniment if other instruments aren’t available.

Chordal instruments like guitar, harp, a second keyboard, or an accordion might be a nice addition in some of the songs too.

I have written the voices in 3 part harmony, S, A, and T&B.
The songs will work with just the melody line for those not wishing to learn all the harmonies.

I would highly suggest adding in some form of percussion to the score, depending on what’s available. A modern drum kit would add extra energy and cohesiveness. Some orchestral percussive sounds would add great drama in places. I have left these decisions to whoever takes on the music to add in percussion wherever you feel appropriate and tasteful.

I pray this music may bring enjoyment and inspiration to all who hear it!"
