

To all Presentation People

Nano Nagle – her story then – our story now, is the result of discussions our Port au Port Associates (Western NL) had about what we could do to make Venerable Nano known. When the Tercentenary year of her birth calendar arrived I started writing all the information pertaining to our Province and as a result, my commitment as an Associate was made even greater. After checking into a few possibilities to have the Story told, Wanda Cook, Manager of the Arts and Culture Center Stephenville, Newfoundland and Labrador, offered to work with me to produce “the story.”

Our Associates all agreed to be part of it and with Sister Regina Quigley and Sister Ruth O'Reilly behind us, this is the result!! I know that Nano was and is with me. We will be looking at other ways to carry Nano’s lantern into the future.

Our Venue was nearly full and we were shown great appreciation for our endeavours. The Associates told Nano’s story and Our story. It was great to have a PowerPoint presentation with Bride Doyle speaking about each photo, including one of the four pioneers who arrived in St. John's Newfoundland in 1833. A series of nine drawings by Sister Marilyn Doyle were also shown. These hopefully will be made into a coloring book which children in Religious Education classes could use and learn about the amazing woman that Nano is. Our presentation ended on a great note when Nano entered and wrote a letter of encouragement to the Sisters and Friends of Nano.
